BORAH SAYS POISON GAS TREATY IS DEAD

Asserts War Department Supplies Other Governments With Chemical Data.

WADSWORTH TAKES ISSUE

Senate Votes to Increase the House Appropriation for Item to $750,000.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERA

New York Herald Bureau.)
Washington, D. C., June 2. |
Senator Borah (Idaho) to-day charged in the Senate that the treaty signed at hibiting the use of poison gases in warfare practically has been discarded by the United States and other Govern-

He also asserted that the War Department has been supplying to other nations valuable information concerning

In the face of Senator Borah's pro test the Senate voted to increase the in the military appropriation bill from $500,000, as contained in the House bill, to $750,000 on the recommendation of the War Department.

"What is known in history," said Senator Borah, "as the disarmament conference adjourned in Washington in February. The most humane, and, if it could have been carried out, the most important treaty that the conference put out was the one relating to the use of submarines and noxious gases in warfare. That trenty dealt with these instruments of warfare which are now

Failed to Effect Real Control.

"The conference was unable to effect a real control of submarines or a definite control of noxious gases. For reasons now well understood by every one, upon the objections of certain Powers it seemed impossible for them to limit the building of submarines or to circumscribe the jurisdiction of the different Powers with reference to these instruments, but they did negotiate a treaty which, if there had been good faith behind these Powers, might have been desirable and brought about good results. "This treaty has not been ratified except by the Senate of the United States. We ratified it in great hasic because we ware told the whole world was waiting for us to take the first step toward world peace, and that as soon as we noted the other nations would be glad to follow. After we ratified the treaties they passed into the pigeonholes of the foreign nations and have never been heard from since." Now as to the use in war of asphys.

foreign nations and have never been leard from since.

"Now as to the use in war of asphyxiating poisons or other gases, and all enalagous liquids, materials or devices, they have been justly condemned by the opinion of the civilized world. And the prohibition of their use having been deckared in treaties, to which a majority of the civilized Powers are signatory, and which is to the end that the prohibition shall be universally accepted as a part of international law, binding alike the conscience and practice of nations, was the meaning of the treaty. If this meant enything at all it meant that the signatories were determined to take the first toward limiting the use of noxious ep toward limiting the use of noxious uses in warfare.

"Five nations met in Washington in abruary and solemnly signed a treaty which they put the ban of condemnation on the use of poison gas, and then thin six months seven nations meet in a same capital to exchange views as how they can most expedite the percent of this method of making war, other words, the city of Washington comes a distributing bureau for information desirable only on the theory at this treaty is to be disregarded."

"Does the Senator," interrupted Senator Wadsworth (N. Y.), "say the United States Government is the central distributing point of information on chemical warfare gases?"

"That is my understanding," replied Senator Borah.

"I venture to say," continued Senator Borah, "that if you will call up the Scretary of War you will find out that this information, which is published in the newspapers, was approved by the War Department. It came as a quotation from the War Department. These representatives of other nations metwith representatives of the War Department, as the papers stated."

"The assumption of the Senator," said Senator Wadsworth, "goes to great length. He would apparently include in the information said to have been imparted, the formula for any gas made under the auspices of this Government. I do not believe that these formulas were given away."

"The Senator from New York," said Senator Borah, "does not believe it, but the Senator from Idaho does. But I may be mistaken; I do not say they gave all the information away."

"In view of the treaty." Senator Borah closed, "and if the spirit of the treaty is to be regarded, why should the experts of these nations be invited or permitted to come here and pass within the jurisdiction of our Government works to obtain information."

Settle Rivalry Over Railroad Concessions in Anatolia.

Constantinoriz, June 2.—The rivalry between French and American capital in Anatolia over railroad concessions, which threatened to develop scrious proportions, ended amicably to-day with the announcement by the Angora Government's representative here that the differences between the American concessionaires and French promoters over the proposed Amasia-Erzingan line had been adjusted.

the proposed Amasia-Erzingan line had been adjusted.

The American concession, known as the Chester project (which was pro-jected by Rear Admiral Chester, U. S. N., retired) does not include this line, which the Turkish Nationalists expect France to complete within a short time.

pre entry which under the French law permits Sudreau to nie suit for divorce.

Victory in this strange marital tangle will go to the side which can get an effective decision first. If the marriage is annulled before Sudreau's suit can reach the divorce judges the Lebaudy fortune will remain in the hands of the mother and daughter. On the other hand, inasmuch as the marriage was performed without a special contract reserving Jacqueline's property rights to her alone, any divorce decree would be legality of the marriage, which would give Sudreau a valuable weapon in a fight for a half interest in Jacqueline's share of the heritage of the "Emperor of Sahara."
